1. Anti-aircraft observation towers have been built in the western part of Hungary. One tower has been completed in the community of Bösarkany on the road to Kapi. Another will be constructed near the village of Kapi on a hill top. In the vicinity of Moson-szentjanos an older anti-aircraft observation station is being rebuilt, and will be 10 meters higher than before.

2. Four antenna towers, each 140 - 160 meters high, are located close to each other on a secondary road in Veszprem. Farther along are several flat cement structures, resembling bunkers.

3. Large numbers of Russian soldiers and officers, many of them armored force troops, are stationed in Szekesfehervar barracks. Female Red Army units and clerical units consisting of male and female personnel are there as well. Twelve or thirteen JS-III tanks can be seen parked in the barracks area. No T-34 tanks are in evidence. Hungarian troops are being trained in the use of the JS-III tank. Russian officers are reported to be running the training.
